NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

Herbie Hancock's Chameleon is one of the funkier tunes ever written! My idea was to keep the classic feel, while updating the harmonic structure and scoring it for full jazz ensemble.

Like the original, this arrangement is all about the groove. To insure the proper interpretation, please have the rhythm section members (if not the whole band) listen again to the original version found on Herbie Hancock's Head Hunters album. In addition, an mp3 file of this exact arrangement is available to listen to or download at alfred.com/downloads.

All falls, like in measures 2, 23, 42, etc., should be long and somewhat boisterous. Please pay particular attention to the articulations throughout, and be sure to "over-do" the scoops. The first soloist starts at measure 48 and continues into measure 52. After that first soloist is finished, subsequent soloist take over at measure 52. Measure 60 is played on cue after the last soloist is finished. The lower octave is always preferred in the bass trombone part, but upper notes are cued for less experienced players.

This chart should be a lot of fun to play! I sincerely hope you enjoy it!
