Foreword

The purpose of this method is to provide a course of progressive lessons for the teacher and student which will combine a knowledge of technique and study of Theory and Harmony. This course is laid out in a progressive lesson form so that it will be easy to keep pace with each phase of the method.

The author has successfully developed this method over a period of years and has produced many of today's outstanding players such as Don Elliott, Joe Venuto, Doug Allan, Don Lamond, George Devens, Alvin Stoller and many others.

We feel we have in this method the most modern and progressive course of study designed to equip the mallet player for today's requirements.

THE PUBLISHER

HAB23

After a thorough examination of Books I, II and III of your Modern Mallet Method, I find it the most complete method yet offered to the mallet player either in the classical or popular field. The theory, harmony and ideas for improvisation make for a most informative series which I find very helpful in my teaching. You have my unqualified endorsement and congratulations!

Dear Mr. Adler.

Be: Phil Krane Mallet Books.

Mr. Kraus'Mallet Methods (Books 1, 2 and 3) are thorough organized and, most important, immediately useful. His 4 mallet vibe book is a fine example of these virtues.

THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC

THE STAFF:-Music is written on a staff which consists of five parallel lines and their spaces. Short auxiliary lines may be added above or below the staff in order to extend the compass of the staff. These lines are called Leger Lines and the spaces which fall between these Leger Lines are called Leger Spaces.

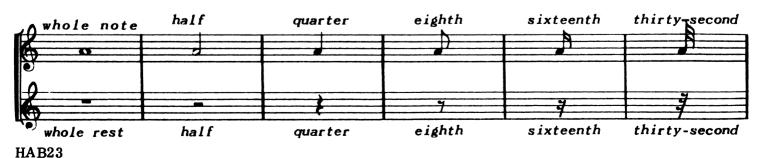

BAR LINES and REPEAT MARKS: -A vertical line drawn through the staff is called a Bar Line. The strong beat or down beat always falls on the beat immediately following a Bar Line. The space between these Bar Lines is called a Measure. When two light vertical lines are drawn through the staff it is called a Double Bar and this indicates the completion of a musical phrase or sentence. The end of a musical composition is also indicated by a double bar consisting of one light and one heavy line. Dotted Double Bars are called Repeat Marks and these indicate that the measures between are to be repeated.

At the end of a musical sentence, there sometimes occurs one or more endings. These endings might contain any number of measures. After repeating the phrase or sentence, the second ending is substituted for the first.

NOTATION and VALUE OF NOTES: - The duration of rhythmical sound is indicated by notes. There are six different types of notes in common use today. Each note has its' equivalent rest which represents silence.
