Program Notes

Exuberance is a new composition from the pen of Barry E. Kopetz capturing the essence of the abundant life that springs forth in the springtime each year. There is a joy in the air as flowers break forth, trees blossom, birds sing and the short days of winter are replaced by the wonderful sights and smells of the longer days of springtime. It is a time of year that brings uplifted spirits to those who enjoy witnessing the rebirth of nature.

Exuberance is an overture which bubbles with energy and vitality from the very first notes. As the ostinato pattern builds the intensity of the music, the first theme fairly bounds off of the page shouting for joy. This personality remains throughout the selection, though often in various guises. Displayed in a most forthright manner is joyous thematic material that virtually propels itself forward with almost incessant intensity and energy. The appearance of the second theme at 52 does little to slow the pace, though the thinner orchestration implies a slightly lighter style than that found in the first theme.

The lyric section of the work is introduced at measure 85 and the melodic line has fallen to the dolce qualities of the euphonium section. This theme is rich with expressive potential and the conductor should consider the entire theme to be in a molto legato style. Additions and deletions to the orchestration should in no way deter the transparency of this lush portion of the music. The addition of the triplet accompaniment at 112 lends motion to this gorgeous theme, but it should not be allowed to mask the inherent beauty of the melodic line.

Measure 143 heralds a return of the original material through the use of the ostinato pattern first introduced at the beginning of the piece, leading ultimately to the joyous return of the first theme at 159. The two contrasting sections of the piece are combined at measure 200, driving the piece toward its fiery coda. Care should be taken to ensure the music always displays a light, but vibrant, character and volume should not be allowed to stand in the way of the rhythmic vitality of the music. In short, Exuberance is a joyful selection and this natural joy must come through in every measure of the piece!

The image displays a musical score for a piece titled "In Chorale Style". The score is written for multiple staves, likely representing different instruments or voices. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings. A large, diagonal watermark reading "Preliminary Publication" is overlaid across the entire page. The score is organized into measures, with some measures containing multiple staves. The dynamics range from mp (mezzo-piano) to mf (mezzo-forte) and p (piano). The tempo or style is indicated as "In Chorale Style". The score is presented in a standard musical notation format, with staves and measures clearly defined.

This image shows a page of musical notation, likely a piano score, featuring multiple staves. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings. A large, diagonal watermark reading "Preview Only" is overlaid across the page. The visible musical elements include:

- Dynamic markings: p (piano), pp (pianissimo), mp (mezzo-piano), and cresc. (crescendo).
- Articulation: Accents (>) are placed over several notes.
- Rehearsal marks: A "2." mark is visible on the right side of the page.
- Staff layout: The page contains several systems of staves, with some staves having multiple voices (e.g., a grand staff with treble and bass clefs).

The notation is complex, with many notes and rests, and the watermark "Preview Only" is prominently displayed across the center of the page.
