Program Notes

A Juggernaut, as defined in the Merriam-Webster Dictionary, is a massive inexorable force that crushes whatever is in its path. Juggernaut is written in a “moto perpetuo” style, with the intensity beginning in the first measure and not letting up until the final bar is finished. Driving, frenetic ostinati alternate with heroic fanfares throughout the piece.

The opening two measures establish the aggressive nature of Juggernaut. This quickly leads to an agitated ostinato in the clarinet section. Layers of melodic and rhythmic tension lead to the first frantic ensemble statement at letter C. This quickly transforms back to the original feel, with even thicker layers of musical anxiety. At letter F, the style abruptly shifts into a fluid, multi meter feel. The melody twists and turns and snakes its way to the first triumphal brass fanfare at letter H. This mood quickly changes to a new atmosphere at letter J, one of seething, musical tension. Canonic melodic statements are quickly answered with dissonant interjections from the ensemble. This section leads to a powerful section at M, built on driving, rhythmic figures. This leads us to a return of the multi meter and fanfare sections from earlier in the piece. This sense of triumph is short lived, however, as the musical tension returns. The musical cauldron builds and finally reaches a boiling point, which drives Juggernaut to a powerful conclusion.

Director's Note: Please keep the tempo steady, aggressive and driving at all times.
