NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

"Oh, Lady Be Good!" is a straight-ahead wing chart that musicians of varying levels will enjoy. The arrangement will work well at a variety of tempos, but the best indicator of the appropriate tempo for your ensemble is how well the saxophone section handles the soli beginning two measures before measure 81.

Although there are many successive marcato quarter notes throughout the arrangement, take care to have the musicians emphasize those quarter notes that fall on beats 2 and 4. The players need to always keep in mind to stay on top of the beat in a bebop style of playing, especially when playing the melody.

For the background parts behind the soloists, direct the players to be careful not to get too heavy, particularly during the unisons. The interlude section at measure 73 should generate a lot of energy from the band to set up the sax soli break. The sax soli will be quite successful if attention is given to the shaping of the phrases. The two measure pick-up to the soli can start aggressively and taper down into measure 81, followed with a continual build to 88. The next phrase of the soli begins with the eighth note pick-ups to measure 89 and builds to the end of 92, followed by a final push to the end of the soli at 97. Consider having the lead alto play through the soli for the other saxes to get a feel for his or her interpretation.

Following the sax soli, the bass solo can follow the written solo, ad-lib or a combination of both. The rhythm section should back down the volume level behind the bass solo but take care not to let the tempo come down.

The backgrounds at measure 103 should start as light as possible but build dramatically into 105 for the final ensemble hit. The ending in measures 115 and 116 might be reminiscent of the familiar style of the Les Brown Band.

Enjoy.
