NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

Composed by Horace Henderson and originally arranged by his brother Fletcher Henderson, Big John's Special is played light and swinging. I strongly suggest the director and band frequently listen to one of the recordings by Benny Goodman of this tune. Based on the chord changes of "I Got Rhythm," the tune uses an AABA song format. An interesting touch is that instead of the usual circle of fifths bridge, this tune modulates up a fourth and repeats the A section in the new key. As an aside, I suggest every player learn "I Got Rhythm" inside and out; you won't regret it.

My specific performance suggestions for this arrangement:

- Don't amplify anybody in the band.
- The rhythm section should play the time right down the middle of the beat (not on top, not laid back).
- Don't play loud, rush or lay back—it's all in the accents and staying soft on the other notes. If you have a long note, accent it, then immediately come way down. Please work on this until it is right—it's essential to the style.
- For saxes in measure 1, all those syncopated notes with rooftop accents get hard accents. Here is a nuance; in measure 2, the tied eighth is long and should get a little inflection (in this case a slight fall off—let the note go about a semitone flat) which will give the passage a blues feeling.
- The trumpet accents in measure 2 are short pecks. Avoid playing those notes too short or clipped because you need to hear the sonority of the chord—think "daht-daht," not "dit-dit."
- The plunger markings at 43 are standard: + means closed and o means open. Move the plunger with energy. Make it snap.
- The three brass eighth notes in measures 89, 91, 93 and 103 are short and even, not swung. At 119, the brass needs to play it crisp.
- Concerning dynamics: just because there is a dynamic marking for a whole phrase, it does not mean to play every note at that same volume. Crescendo as you ascend and diminuendo as you descend which will give the music life and character.

Additional suggestions:

- Stand up for solos (not the piano or drummer). Stand up for the solis (brass at measure 57, saxes at 73). This makes these important parts more audible and also directs the listener's attention.
- This is our music and your birthright, just like our Constitution—and every bit as American. It was given to us by men whose dignity and joy was larger than life. They and I are entrusting this legacy to you.
- Go to YouTube and watch some videos of Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Jimmy Lunceford, Benny Goodman, et al.
- Finally, dress clean, smile and look like you are all enjoying the music. It's contagious.
