Program Notes

The fanfare is built with two main components: the opening triplet motive and the lyrical theme at Letter A. The music drives to a climax which leads to an extended solo passage for the timpanist. The brass section re-enters at Letter E culminating in a brief call & response. The tension begins to mount again at Letter G when the lyrical theme returns as a canon in augmentation. The work comes full circle by reaching its conclusion with the return of the opening motive.

Instrumentation

Cedar Ridge Fanfare was originally written for 6 euphoniums but it absolutely works with the following combinations:

- 6 Trombones
- 2 Euphoniums/2 Trombones/2 Tubas

Performance Suggestions

- Clarity of articulation while maintaining a resonant body of sound is the goal!
- The timpani player should strive for lyricism, especially during the solo passages; don't hammer!
- Be aware of the quartal and bi-tonal harmonies that are employed throughout. Isolate & tune the 4ths or the individual chords as the passage dictates.
- Do not "kill" the accents! A natural sense of inflection and weight creates a more buoyant texture.
- Feel free to experiment with dynamics in the low brass - your version is just as valid as mine!
