About the Music

This work is from a collection of 21 pieces written initially as piano duets but was so popular that it was transcribed for many combinations of instruments. The tunes in most of the Hungarian Dances are from the Roma culture (Gypsy), a style closely associated with Hungary. These pieces are celebrated for their fire and passion.

Students should exaggerate the dynamics and follow the conductor closely on the tempo alterations. Exaggerating those tempo changes will also add to the excitement and intensity.

The opening melody and the harmony a third below should be played with a consistently long and smoothly connected bow stroke, maintaining a full tone throughout. Sixteenth notes should be played detache in the middle of the bow, increasing and decreasing bow length to create the rise and fall of the dynamic. Consecutive eighth notes should be played off the string (e.g. violins in measure 49).
